

Client Meeting - February 11th, 11:30 - 11:50 am PST

Team updates for the client:

- Login/Registration: Users can now reset password. Validation has been added to login/sign up page
- Eco tracker: Leaf scoring input now available
- Article page: We're currently reworking segment buttons to generalize to any number of segments
- Popover implementation: There have been some difficulties implementing popovers. We're currently exploring ways to integrate popovers into the text editor. Another solution we've found is a commercial plugin that works with our current text editor: <https://topiqs.online/1125>. This costs $19 for use of a single project
- Read article tracking: Currently, we are tracking a page position to determine if a page has been read. We are working on finishing the progress bar implementation

Client updates and questions:

- Client pointed out that the page position can be used to implement the 'Pick up where you left off feature'
- Intuitive ness of segments: The client thinks that the ion chips looks more like tags than article segment and suggested we could style them differently
- Client would like a clearer pricing of the popover license
- Client messaged after the meeting that the ECO scoring leaves could be highlighted individually with different colours instead of filling up
