Client Meeting - November 24th, 1:30 - 1:55 pm PST

- We updated the client on our current progress of the static app.
  - A working search bar
  - Articles in JSON format for dynamic display in the articles tab, which contains the content of the article in HTML format. Right now we're manually copying the HTML from your website, but in the future, we could fetch this data from your website and store it, without having to have a database
  - Added an edit content option in articles for admins
  - All individual pages now are in their respective tab and navigation between pages now work
  - Validation for user inputs
- Questions/suggestions from clients for us to address:
  - For the edit content option, how will the changes be kept both in the app and the website without a database?
  - There could be validation (check HTML syntax) and preview for the edit content option
- Informed the client about the process of peer testing